

FORT GANSEVOORT

VOGUE

Sienna Miller and More Toast Zoë Buckman's New Solo Exhibition

By Editors

February 24, 2017

Sienna Miller and More Toast Zoë Buckman's New Solo Exhibition

FORT GANSEVOORT

On Wednesday, the worlds of art and fashion collided for a preview of artist Zoë Buckman's new solo exhibition, "Imprison Her Soft Hand." The show was held at Project for Empty Spaces @Gateway—a hot new addition to the up-and-coming cultural scene in Newark, New Jersey. Codirectors Jasmine Wahi and Rebecca Jampol hosted a chic crowd of curators, artists, and creatives who came out for the occasion, including Sienna Miller, Helen Toomer, Tiana Webb Evans, and David Antonio Cruz.

Miller dazzled in a lipstick-red slip layered under a menswear-inspired overcoat that was grounded by Gucci loafers—perfect for a walk-through of the exhibition. An intimate dinner for 50 guests followed the reception. Chef Michael S. Easterling prepared a locally sourced farm-to-table meal featuring lamb chops, shrimp, and polenta, and a deconstructed apple pie for dessert. But the icing on the proverbial cake, so to speak, was no doubt Buckman's latest work.