

FORT GANSEVOORT

Robb Report

Murriland! by Gordon Hookey

Gordon Hookey's massive mural confronts visitor at the entrance of the Neue Neue Galerie, located in a former post office. The Australian artist of Waanyi descent makes an ambitious attempt to tell the fate of aboriginal people in what is now Queensland. The mural's central panel shows Hookey's aboriginal ancestors emerging from the Dreamtime...

September 7, 2017

Gordon Hookey's massive mural confronts visitor at the entrance of the Neue Neue Galerie, located in a former post office. The Australian artist of Waanyi descent makes an ambitious attempt to tell the fate of aboriginal people in what is now Queensland. The mural's central panel shows Hookey's aboriginal ancestors emerging from the Dreamtime and landing in Australia on the left, while illustrations in the middle show the coming of Europeans and their eventual domination of the land. Texts further tell the story, while a pantheon of kangeroos fill the right side of the wall.